WILL DISCUSS CITY BONDING ISSUES

Council Will Call Mass Meeting to Consider Municipal Requirements.

CONDITION OF CITY FINANCES

Trustees to Make Another Effort to Secure Means to Provide for Street Improvements.

In order that every voter of the city may have an opportunity to thoroughly comprehend the scope of the improvements contemplated under the proposed bond issue—especially with reference to the waterway on the County Road—the Trustees, at their meeting Monday evening, decided to call a mass meeting for the discussion of the proposals to be voted on at the election on February 15th. This meeting will be held at the Alhambra on Friday evening, February 4th, the proposals and their importance will be thoroughly explained.

All of the Trustees were present when President Merrill called the Council to order, and although no time was lost in getting down to business the session was an unusually long one.

The monthly reports of the various city officers were read and placed on file.

The report of Treasurer F. K. Towne shows that the receipts for the month amounted to $3442.25, and that during the same time the total expenditures were $5085.83. The treasurer has on hand a balance of $8451.56. The sources from which the receipt were derived were as follows:

Water collections	$ 554 75
Licenses	2826 00
Special Permits	17 50
Dog Licenses	34 00
Sewer Connections	10 00

During the month there was paid out for interest and redemption on account of the varion outstanding bond issues the following sums:

Water Works bonds redemption	$ 200 00
" " " interest	341 00
Electric Light bonds redemption	104 62
" " " interest	178 25
Sewer bonds redemption	1750 50
" " interest	420 00

In the library fund the months expenditures amounted to $277.55, leaving a balance on hand of $1140.67.

Marshal Christ reported that the collections on account of the two Dingee Park street improvement districts were $12.841.22, and that there were no delinquensies on account of these assessments.

The United Gas & Electric Co. were given permission to open Hopkins avenue for the purpose of extending gas mains to connect with Carl Beeger's new residence.

A number of residents on Third stree, between C and D presented a petition asking that an additional light be placed on that block. While the need of the relief was not questioned, it was considered best to make no changes until after the restored light system had been accepted and the petition was laid over for future consideration.

Chairman Merrill called attention to the fact that the existing contract with the Redwood City Water Company would expire June 1st, and advised that the city should take advantage of the clause which permitted its renewal for an additional two years. On motion of Trustee Hynding a resolution notifying the company that it was the intention of the city to continue the contract was adopted.

This lead to some discussion of the subject of city lighting, the contract for which has already expired, during which there was some rather caustic criticisms of past methods of the lighting company. Several methods of future proceedure were suggested and discussed without definite conclusion. The general opinion appeared to be in favor of belay until competition might be secured, and that the city lines should be so used as to insure liberal treatment in the matter of extensions.

Considerable time was devoted to the discussion of the somewhat worn subject of street improvement, which has been repeatedly delayed because of an inability to obtain assurance of sale of the bonds. City Attorney Mansfield stated that cashier Behrens of the First National Bank had interested himself in this matter and from inquiries felt assured that street bonds to the amount of $75,000 could be disposed of. On this information, the street committee was instructed to prepare a list of such streets as are in most urgent need of improvement, and prepare a district in which the cost will no exceed this limit. That there may be no further delay, an abjourned meeting will be held next Monday evening to hear the report of the committee.

Ordinance No. 90, the ordinance calling for the bond election, was given its final reading and adopted. [The ordinance is publised in full on the fourth page of this paper.]

At the request of the San Francisco Chronicle Chairman Merrill stated that paper was preparing to issue a special issue devoted to booming this portion of the State and desired that the city should contribute $50 to a fund for advertising the city. Evidently the members of the Board took but little stock in this method of advertising as the request was turned down cold.

On motion of Trustee Rice it was decided to call a public meeting at the Alhambra on Friday evening, February 4th, for the purpose of affording an opportunity of discussing the proposed bond issue.

Trustee Beeger stated that G. W. Lovie was endeavoring to secure a visit from the members of the board of fire insurance underwriters that they might inspect the improvement of the water system, and that he desired the co-operation of the Counail. The Trustees approved of the plan and expressed a readiness to lend their aid.

REMINISCENSES OF OUR PIONEER DAYS

Gleanings From the Records Left By Men Who Laid the Foundation of Our County.

PRINTER GETS MANY TROUT

Owen McGarvey's Ranch Furnishes Material for Big Quicksilver Mining Romance.

That it required but little to stir up an excitement over mining prospects in those days, and that even men of usually clear understanding allowed themselves to be lead into playing the "sucker" when it came to mineral stories, may be gleaned from an extract from the local columns of the Gazette of May 16, 1868. Under the heading of "Discovery of a Quicksilver Mine," the report was as follows: "Considerable excitement was caused in Redwood City on last Tuesday by the report that a quicksilver mine of surpassing richness had been discovered on the rancho of Owen McGarvey, some three miles from Redwood City on the Searsville road. Mr. McGarvey has a contract for grading and putting rock on Main street from the county road near the distillery to the railroad crossing in the eastern addition to Redwood City and has been hauling the rock from a ledge on his ranch. The rock is hauled in large boulders as it is quaried out and then broken up with sledgehammers upon the road, and it was while one of the men was engaged in pounding the rock to pieces that he discovered the quicksilver oozing out and trickling down among the loose rock. Some quarter of an ounce or more of the liquid quicksilver was gathered up in a cover to an old tin can and brought to this office together with several pieces of the rock in which particles of quicksilver were visible. The rock before us does not have the redish appearance peculiar to all cinibar which we have seen before, but that it contains a large percentage of quicksilver there can be no doubt. There is a mountaiu of rock where this came from, but the extent of the cinabar is yet unknown. Steps will be taken to thoroughly prospect the mine without delay." Evidently the scheme—whatever it might have been—soon petered out, as althongh in the next issue of the paper it was stated that men were engaged in sinking a shaft on the ranch that was the last heard of the "strike."

That it did not require an expert with the rod to secure a good catch of trout from the mountain streams of this county in the '60s is shown by a story related by a printer of those days. As is the case to this date, the "press day" of the Gazette was Friday evening. In the latter part of July, on a Saturday afternoon after the composing room had been cleared up from the effects of the week's work and the office towel given its occasional bath, E. Woodhead, a compositor in the office, with a couple of friends, started for the mountains with their rods in search of a mess of trout. Sunday afternoon the returned to town with a string of 350 genuine speckled brook trout, all of which were of goodly size.

While perhaps Redwood City has not made as rapid growth in the past few years as some of its more enthusiastic residents might wish, it is certain that property values have not retrograded during the past 40 years if official figures go to prove anything. According to the assessor's valuations for the year 1868, the total valuation of property within the town limits at that time was $211,697. It is probable that if the duty of the assessor of the present day required that he should return a census of the canines in town there would be even a more notable increase in that line of "property," for according to the return of the assessor made for that year there were but 20 dogs to be found within the city limits.

During the year 1868 the Redwood City fire department found itself in a decidedly prosperous condition and the boys decided that they were entitled to a home of their own. With this purpose in view the Company purchased a portion of the McLeod lot—where the shack the people now designate as a town hall at present stands—paying for it the sum of $300. Another $100 was spent at the same time in moving the engine house to the lot and making some needed repairs to the building.

At the Presidential election in November, 1868, this county went Republicam by a majority of 211 out of a total of 1045 votes. Frank M. Pixley for Congressman was given a majority of 203 over Samuel B. Axtell, his Democratic opponent. In Redwood City precinct a total of 294 votes were cast, giving a majority for the Republican ticket of 44. The result of this vote would seem to indicate that during the 10 years which had elapsed since it organization the voting population of the county had made but a very slight increase.

The board of supervisors seem to be in a quandry about issuing a prize fight permit to one Hester who desires to establish an arena on the Mission road in this county. If the supervisors wish to have their names emblazoned upon the fair pages of history of San Mateo County and their names go ringing down the ages as the men who stamped out the foulest stain upon the escutcheon of San Mateo County not only will the reject Hester's application but will revoke the Colma license and thereby rid the county of thugs and sure thing men. No other place in the United States with the exception of Nevada, are prize figth ers permitted to fight forty-fiv rounds. It is a crying shame that boxing bouts should take place in the county. We ask home seekers to come here where they may take advantage of our school facilities our cluture, climate, etc., and yet we permit the most degrading and revolting pastimes (if such you may call it) to flourish. Preposterous gentlemen, preposterous.

MORE LIGHT ON THE CONTROVERSY

Attorneys Ross & Ross Address Open Letter to the People of San Mateo County

KERTELL IS CONTRADICTED

County Treasurer Chamberlain Has Fulfilled Every Requirement of County Deposit Law.

TO THE CITIZENS AND TAXPAYERS OF SAN MATEO COUNTY:

In the San Francisco Chronicle of January 19, 1910, is published a column article purporting to be an interview with Mr. Kertell, foreman of the grand jury of this county now in session, in which Mr. Kertell endeavors to explain the County and Municipal Deposit Act of 1907, and why the grand jury has taken up the matter of the depositing of the county funds in several of the banks of the county, and finally criticizes the treasurer and the banks where deposits have been made for what he terms "transgressions of the law."

As attorneys for the treasurer and two of said banks, and firmly believing that the law has not been transgressed by either the treasurer or the banks, we feel that the taxpayers and citizens of this county wish full information concerning the matter in question, and we therefore beg leave to make the following statement:

THE TREASURER HAS NO VAULT IN WHICH TO KEEP COUNTY MONEY.

It is a well known fact that never, in more than thirty years last past, has the county provided any county treasurer with an office or vault or proper safe for the protection or safe keeping of the county money, and that during the entire incumbency of Mr. Chamoerlain as treasurer, continuing over a period of 27 years, his only office has been his general merchandise store, and no one would for a moment consent to deposit any considerable sum of money in the alleged "safe" furnished him by the county. During all of this time every chairman of the board of supervisors, every district attorney, and every auditor, has accepted and counted as cash certificates of deposit and statements of account with banks, showing sums of money to the credit of the treasurer, each recognizing the fact that it was impossible for the treasurer to personally keep in his posession the county money. This same condition exists today.

COUNTY AND MUNICIPAL DEPOSIT ACT OF 1907.

This act authorizes the treasurer, upon application of any bank, to deposit therein county funds on said bank giving to the treasurer as security bonds in a sum ten per cent in excess of the amount borrowed, and requires the bank to pay at least two per cent. interest upon daily balances; all of said money is subject to withdrawal by the treasurer on demand, making it practically a commercial account.

After this act was passed we advised the county treasurer that if any bank should make application to him for a deposit of any county money and would give him the proper security therefor and pay interest as required by the act, that it was his duty to accept the application, make the deposit and collect the interest. And we know tnat the treasurer has at all times been ready and willing to make such deposits upon proper application being made therefor, but no bank has, up to this date, made any application for any part of the same.

When the present grand jury found fault with Mr. Chamberlain for not making deposits under said act, in order to show his good faith in the matter he addressed a letter to every bank in this county, asking each bank how much money, if any, it would receive under said act, give security for and pay interest on, or receive on special deposit, and to which letters he received answers to the effect that no one of them would accept any deposit and give security and pay interest thereon or receive any sum on special deposit, and all of which letters were delivered by the treasurer to the foreman of the grand jury, Mr. Kertell, for his information and that of his fellow grand jurors, and copies sent to the Attorney General, and said letters are now subject to the inspection of any person interested.

Mr. Kertell, in his interview, is quoted as saying:

"I went to various banks in San Francisco and found that many of them would be willing to accept our money and comply with all the provisions of the law."

However, he did not give the names of the banks he referred to, nor did he have any one of them apply to Mr. Chamberlain for any portion of the county funds, as required by law. To supply this omission Mr. Chamberlain wrote Mr. Kertell the following letter, which will speak for itself:

"January 19th, 1910.

"Mr. Geo. A. Kertell,
Foreman of Grand Jury,
San Mateo, California.

Dear Sir: There is published in the San Francisco Chronicle of this date a purported interview with you giving the views of the grand jury of which you are foreman concerning the Act of 1907 in reference to deposits of county money. In this interview you are quoted as saying:

" 'I went to various banks in San Francisco and found that many of them would be willing to accept our money and comply with all the provisions of the law.'

"As you know, I heretofore wrote to each bank in this county asking if it would receive any sum on deposit, give security and pay interest, as provided by said Act, and I delivered to you the answers of said banks from which you, of course ascertained that no bank in this county gave a favorable reply. I now further say that I wish as treasurer to avail myself of every opportunity to take advantage of the terms of said Act and to that end I now request that you kindly forward me the names of the banks referred to in the foregoing quotation, and upon receipt of such names I will immediately write such banks and ask them to make application to me for deposits under said Act, and if they make application and comply with the terms of the Statute I will at once make deposits with them.

Trusting to hear from you by return mail, I remain,

Yours very respectfully,
'P. P. CHAMBERLAIN,
"County Treasurer.'

Mr. Chamberlain not having been provided with a vault could not keep the county funds in his posession. All of the banks of this county having not only failed to apply for but having declined to accept, any of the county funds under the terms of this act, and no bank in San Francisco or elsewhere having applied for any of said funds, the treasurer has been unable to deposit any money under this act.

Mr. Kertell, in this same interview, says:

"The law does not state that he shall keep the money in his possession, but merely directs him to keep in a safe place."

This the county treasurer has complied with by depositing the funds of the county in several of the local banks. By so doing has he transgressed the law? Has he, according to Mr. Kertell's own interpretation of the law?

LIABILITY OF TREASURER OR BANKS FOR INTEREST.

A resolution was introduced by the chairman of the board of supervisors directing the district attorney to commence suit against Mr. Chamberlain to recover interest on deposits. We understand that the district attorney advised the board that in his opinion a judgment in favor of the county could not be obtained. We are of the opinion that the advice of the district attorney was correct but we think that in order to definitely settle the question it would be wise for the board of supervisors to obtain from the attorney general, or from some eminent attorney selected by him, a written opinion as to whether or not a judgment can be recovered in favor of the county against the treasurer or either of said banks, anu we trust that an opinion may be thus obtained which will be so clear that it will be satisfactory to all concerned.

INTERVIEWS WITH ATTORNEY GENERAL WEBB.

Mr. Kertell, in his statement, also says:

"We got the opinion of Attorney General Webb on the validity of the law and his language was unmistakable. He explained it to me very fully and can see no reason why the banks and treasurer should not comply with the law."

We desire to say that a member of our firm also called on Attorney General Webb and explained to him the situation—that the treasurer had not been furnished by the county with any office or vault or safe—and the attorney general then stated that the opinion given by him to Mr. Kertell was based upon the supposition that the treasurer had been furnished with proper facilities for taking care of and safely keeping the county money. We have since forwarded to the attorney general copies of letters addressed by the treasurer to the grand jury and the banks of this county, and also copies of the answers received by the treasurer.

The First National Bank some days ago addressed a communication to the grand jury and therein requested a hearing by it, and suggested that Honorable Alden Anderson, superintendent of banks, and Honorable U. S. Webb, Attorney General, be asked to appear before and advise the grand jury, and if these efficient state officers shall say that the treasurer or other bank is not properly depositing or holding any money, and suggest what shall be done with it, their direction will be promptly followed.

What further can the grand jurors or the tax payers suggest?

Let us have light.

Trusting this whole matter may be definitely settled at an early day and to the mutual satisfaction of all concerned, we remain.

Yours very respectfully,
ROSS & ROSS

Often I suffered so severely that it was almost impossible for me to move. The kidney secretions were unnatural and passed so frequently that I was unable to rest well.
